Introduction & Overview

- This is our first “lecture” or outline I will distribute for participants to review along with the readings.
 - I tend to prefer the outline format and will often pose questions rather than providing the traditional lecture.
 - This fits with the way I generally conduct a traditional class.

Introduction & Overview (2)

- When I conduct a regular class with a room full of students I like to use what is called the “Socratic Method” of teaching.
 - This is based on the tradition started by Socrates, who taught through asking his students questions.
 - By answering the questions, students learn actively rather than passively.
