

VISION

VISION

- The response to stimulation of the light receptors in the eye.

VISION

- The mental image that is perceived depends upon both the physical processes that produced the light and the physiological and mental processes of the observer.

