
Chapter 3

Segmentation, Segmentation, Targeting,
and Positioning
and Positioning

Mass-marketing

- A strategy that presumes there is one undifferentiated market and that one product will appeal to all consumers in that market.

Advantages

- Lower cost
 - One advertising campaign is needed
 - One marketing strategy is developed
 - Usually only one standardized product is developed
-